THE HAINS TRIAL.

The story of the saying of William E. Hains, a publisher, as heard in his catboat clad only in a bathing suit and was riddled with bullets that made a dozen wounds, was yesterday made part of the record in the trial of Thornton J. Hains, a magazine writer at Flushing, N. Y., charged with being a principal with his brother, Captain Peter O. Hains, Jr., in the murder of Annis last summer.

Tracing the movements of the principals in the Bay Side Yacht Club tragedy with the aid of miniature iron figures and models of the boat and the catboat, Edw. Andrews, a yacht club member, showed under examination how the army captain, standing on the boat's edge, held aloft the observing boom and sail of Annis's boat and shot the publisher as he sat at the tiller.

The prosecution claims that for months preceding the shooting, Thornton Hains had written to Recreation magazine, by which Annis was employed, making threats against Annis. It contends that Thornton Hains armed himself, before going to the Bay Side Yacht Club, and that on approaching Annis he said: "We've got him now." Further it asserts that Thornton Hains held off those who would have gone to the aid of Annis after Captain Hains shot him down. Thornton Hains even turned his revolver on Mrs. Annis, who stood nearby, and threatened her as she started to rush to her husband's aid.

John Tanning, the Swedish boat-man who knocked the revolver out of the hand of Captain Hains, is missing.

STARVED TO DEATH

With a painting valued at more than $1,000 in her possession, Carlotta Rodriguez, the young daughter of one of California's most noted artists, lived in poverty and actual want in San Francisco for several years and finally died when her life could have been saved had she had the money to purchase proper food and medicines, rather than sell the picture because it was the last product of her father's genius that remained to her.

A. O. Rodriguez, though of a poor Spanish family, earned a wide success with his paintings, but when he died of consumption 12 years ago he left nothing but the pictures in his studio for the support of his daughter and mother. One by one these were sold that the dire necessities of life might be secured. But when "The Evening Storm" alone remained Carlotta refused to permit its sale, so she practically starved to death. Before the end came she gave the picture into the keeping of friends, telling them that it would provide an easy living for her own soul. Then the end came and the girl, breathing her last, happy in the thought that her own needs had not tormented her to part with the work of her father's hands that she held dearer than life itself.

RAILROAD FARES

Henry T. Wickham and Henry Taylor, of the Chesapeake and Ohio; Eppa Hunton, of the Seaboard Air Line; Alfred P. Thom, of the Southern; James H. Doran and Lucian Cooke, of the Norfolk and Western; A. Torrey General William H. Anderson, Judge William P. Rhea and Judge B. R. Prentiss, members of the State Corporation Commission, and Governor Season were in conference in Richmond yesterday concerning a proposed agreement between the railroads and the State regarding a mileage arrangement which will put at rest the pending litigation in the rate controversy, which for more than two years has been constantly in the courts, and upon which the Supreme Court of the United States has just rendered a decision which leaves both the railroads and the State in a quandary as to how best to proceed.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the settlement will be effected upon a compromise rate in the neighborhood of 2 1/2 cents flat.

KILLED BY FALLING PIER.

Three men were instantly killed and five others seriously injured by a portion of a concrete pier of the new bridge being erected over the Potomac river at Williamsport, Md., collapsing yesterday.

The broken pier stands in the river next to the Maryland shore. A heavy steel girder was being placed in position when the pier gave way. The girder and heavy steel iron traveler, with fourteen men, fell 50 feet into the river. Four of the men were crushed to death. The pier that gave way was finished about a week ago. The popular opinion is that the concrete pier was not quite dry, and that the cement had not become thoroughly fixed.

A dream saved the life of Charles Harrison, a workman. On Tuesday night he dreamed the bridge had fallen into the river, and yesterday morning he refused to go to work, having a premonition of danger.

Beware of Frequent Colds. A succession of colds or a protracted cold is almost certain to end in chronic catarrh, from which few persons ever wholly recover. Give every cold the attention it deserves and you may avoid this disagreeable disease. How can you cure a cold? Why not try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended. Mrs. M. White, of Butler, Tenn., says: "Several years ago I was bothered with my throat and lungs. Someone told me of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I began using it and it relieved me at once. Now my throat and lungs are sound and well." For sale by W. F. Creighton & Co. and Richard Gibson.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY THAT XMAS GIFT.

King and Pitt Sts.,

Beg to announce their complete readiness for the Xmas holiday rush. The stocks have been carefully gathered from the best markets and consist of the most practical gift things for Women, Men and Children at exceedingly moderate prices. We shall make a feature to box every present in a neat box. We have purchased thousands of neat fancy boxes at a considerable cost specially for this purpose. To avoid the usual afternoon rush we would suggest shopping early in the day.

Respectfully,
